Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Claims 1-5, 12, and 13 in Paper No. 8 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1-5, 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bayer et al (US 6,311,190 B1).

Claims 1 and 3:

Bayer discloses a method for providing a GUI screen to a remote user from a server system through inter-computer communications between the server system and a client system of the remote user (abstract; col. 1, lines 7-24; fig. 1). Bayer teaches selection of a user's preferred language on the basis of the attributes of the user without causing the user to perform an operation to designate the language when the user accesses the server system. The system prepares and sends the GUI in the preferred language (abstract; col. 1, lines 7-24; col. 2, lines 34-59; col. 31, lines 19-59).

Claim 2:

Bayer teaches that the objects constituting the GUI screen are displayed (dynamically generated) in the preferred language (col. 2, lines 64-67; col. 3, lines 1-4; col. 6, lines 28-46, 66-67; col. 7, lines 1-36).

Claims 4 and 5:

Bayer teaches a method for providing a service using a GUI screen to a remote user. Bayer teaches storing conditions for providing services for a user or group of users (people are grouped by the country of origin or by attributes), (col.

2, lines 33-59). Bayer teaches selecting conditions for providing services to users belonging to a specific group (col. 2, lines 60-67; col. 3, lines 1-36).

Claims 12 and 13:

See claims 1 and 4. Bayer teaches that the system stores addresses for a plurality of GUI screens corresponding to a plurality of users. When the system receives a request from the client system of a user, an address corresponding to the user is selected and a GUI screen is sent to the user in the preferred language to provide a service (abstract; col. 3, lines 2-67).

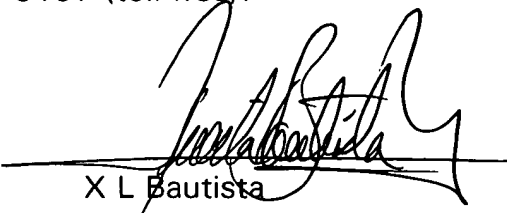

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
